b. 1853

Albert H. Whitin, born 1853, was the son of James Fletcher Whitin.

Albert never married and left no heirs. He was never really involved in the textile companies.

Unmarried, he moved to Europe and lived much of his life there. Family gossip titled him "Prince Albert" because of his fondness for things French and his aristocratic airs.

Although he rarely spent much time in Whitinsville as an adult, he gave much of his money to causes in Whitinsville.
